C: ASSET MAP DATA

Communities have never been built upon their deficiencies. Building community has always depended upon mobilizing the capacities and assets of a people and a place. That is why a map of neighborhood assets is necessary if local people are to find the way toward empowerment and renewal.” (Mapping Community Capacity, Kretzman & McKnight, 1996)

Spurred by the establishment of new facilities in the neighborhood – including the Glendale Mountain View CLC and the Glendale Library- as well as the release of a draft West Salt Lake Master Plan, the Glendale and Poplar Grove neighborhoods of West Salt Lake are in the midst of an asset-based collaborative planning process involving key institutions and residents in the area. In the summer of 2013, key partners from University Neighborhood Partners, Salt Lake City’s Sorenson Unity Center, and the Glendale Mountain View CLC began an asset mapping project to better understand the unique assets of West Salt Lake. Rather than the traditional “needs-based” approach to community development that focuses upon assessing deficiencies, our intent was to better understand the neighborhood assets and capacities to build upon and activate.

During the 2013 Fall Semester, a team of University of Utah Family and Consumer Studies students fanned out across the zip code, contacting the majority of organizations and service providers in the neighborhood to gather key information. Over the course of the past year, we have convened residents and representatives from partner organizations multiple times to gather information and feedback on the process. All of this information has been carefully managed, organized and summarized into the following report.

Disclaimer: The data found in this report was gathered at the end of 2013 and can no longer be considered completely current. The information contained here is meant to provide a snapshot of the programs and services offered in West Salt Lake and a starting point for asset-based. It is our hope that this data will be particularly useful for community programmers, service providers and policy-makers for coordination and collaboration. Data has been broken into sub-categories and initial recommendations provided.

There are gaps in the information provided here: most notably that the students didn't map all of the business assets in the neighborhood. Additionally, we have only just begun to understand the capacities, skills and abilities of West Salt Lake's greatest asset: its people. There is much work to be done yet, but with this information in hand, we believe many will have a better understanding of where to spend our energy. We are excited to see where it goes from here. Thanks to all who participated and have worked to make this project possible.

Sincerely,

The West Salt Lake Asset Map Team

ASSET MAPPING PROCESS²⁰¹³⁻²⁰¹⁴

The first step in developing the West Salt Lake Asset Map was to collaborate and identify goals and purpose for the project. The goals for the process were to

- Understand key neighborhood capacities, skills & assets
- Develop a community organizing/communication tool.

Process Timeline

- July - Collaborative planning for the West Salt Lake Asset Map project.
- September - Feedback was solicited from individual community organization partners.
- October - December - University of Utah FCS Community Development class (25 students taught by Kim Schmit) identified, mapped and summarized assets in Glendale/Poplar Grove.
- November - Resident focus groups convened to survey & understand current “resident assets”.
- February - Asset findings were shared with community organization partners (via PPT & spreadsheet)
- Feb. - Apr. - Asset Map data used at Glendale Mountain View CLC Partner meetings for programming coordination and collaboration.
- March - Dashboard resident focus group held.
- March - Utah Community Data Project brought information about neighborhood demographics.
- May -July – “Snapshot” report created to summarize information gathered through the West Salt Lake Asset Map project.

Using the Data & Next Steps

From our perspective, the process of gathering this information has been very valuable in itself in terms of opening channels of communication and collaboration that have not been present in the past. We acknowledge that there are likely omissions, errors and definitely additional work to do, however the response that has emerged as we share this information has been extremely positive and we expect to continue refining this information to make it useful to more organizations and to residents.

It is our intention to develop a pilot website- the Community Dashboard- that will be built around a searchable database of this information. Our research has provided insight into what other elements should be included on this website to encourage resident use. We expect to do some significant outreach to provide education and access to residents for this information. It is our hope that regular and frequent use by residents will incentivize organizations to update their program information.

Residents

The Glendale/Poplar Grove neighborhood – also known as West Salt Lake - reaches from the I-80 freeway to 2100 south and the I-15 freeway to Redwood Road in Salt Lake City, Utah. This area is also consistent with the boundaries of the 84104 zip code.

According to the Utah Community Data Project (See Appendix A), the total population of Glendale/Poplar Grove (as of 2010) is 24,759 people. The Glendale/Poplar Grove neighborhood has a diverse community with significantly more minority residents at 69.7 percent than the rest of Utah at 19.6 percent. Figure A demonstrates the diversity in Glendale compared with the country as a whole. The median age for the neighborhood is 27.6 years old; younger than the state of Utah’s median age of 29.2 years old.

During the asset map project, several focus groups were held in an effort to better understand the assets of West Salt Lake from the perspective of residents. The first and largest of these focus groups was held by a University of Utah FCS class along with community leaders. Students asked residents about some of their favorite aspects of the Glendale/Poplar Grove neighborhood as well as what they would like to see improved. Their comments can be found in the Appendix B and include:

“This community is down to earth and neighborly. It has beautiful gardens and the wonderful Jordan River Trail.”

“The schools are great. All of my children have benefitted from the school systems, and they each had different needs. The schools have been very good to us.”

“I love how quiet and peaceful the neighborhood is.”

PARKS & OPEN SPACES

One of West Salt Lake’s most precious natural resources is the many parks and open spaces throughout the neighborhood. Eighty-three percent of residents live within a quarter mile of some type of green space: the highest percentage in the City. Fourteen parks were mapped in the neighborhood, comprising one hundred three acres; all of them managed by Salt Lake City Parks and Public Lands (SLC PPL). Additionally, a total of three hundred ten acres of open space in West Salt Lake is managed by SLC PPL.

Within the parks, the following amenities are available:

Soccer fields:	3
Baseball/softball fields:	7
Tennis courts:	12
Playgrounds:	6
Basketball courts:	2
Skate parks:	1
Golf course:	1
Off-leash dog areas:	1
Trail mileage:	6

Alternative Recreation Space

Along with the listed parks and open spaces there are other certain factors unique to Salt Lake City for recreation. There are seven LDS church buildings in West Salt Lake which have recreation halls for basketball, volleyball, dancing and other activities. Seven Peaks Water Park is also located within Glendale and the Jordan River, which stretches the entire length of the community, is used for boating and water activities. Additionally, the surplus canal is used for rowing activities.

Recommendations

- Coordinate with Salt Lake Parks and Public Lands to improve recreational opportunities, information, and infrastructure along the Jordan River.
- Abandoned lots could be enhanced to supply ecological and community values in the form of natural lands, parks, trails, or other uses.
- Increase public outreach, education and access to open spaces
- A solution for the parking problems at the water park should be explored.

HEALTH & FITNESS

In 2011, the Utah Department of Health released a Small Area Health Profile for the Glendale area (figure C) providing a ranking in a variety of health categories compared with the state of Utah average. This data indicates some alarming statistics and warrants more in-depth study of the health and fitness programs and services in West Salt Lake.

In the Glendale/Poplar Grove neighborhoods there were seventy-seven total available programs mapped offering health or fitness related services. These programs fall under seven distinct categories as summarized in Figure D:

- Nutrition
- Prenatal & Pregnancy
- Mental Health
- Health Education
- Support Groups
- Clinical Services
- Fitness

Health programming areas in Glendale/Poplar Grove

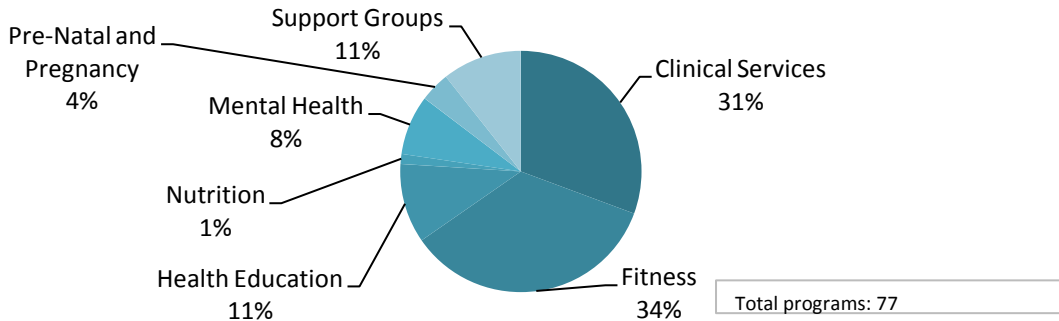

Figure D

Fitness

Fitness services account for one third of health programming/services in West Salt Lake. Eighteen of the twenty-six fitness programs are exclusive to youth, with the Sorenson Multicultural Center offering the majority of the classes, as well as hosting the youth swimming program. The non-youth related fitness programs include the gym and pool at Sorenson Multicultural Center and programming at Sunday Anderson Senior Center and Westside Senior Center.

Clinical Services

There are twenty-three clinical services/programs offered in Glendale/Poplar Grove, provided by a host of clinics including Donated Dental, Friends for Sight, Concentra Urgent Care, the University of Utah clinic, First Med and the Glendale/Mountain View Community Learning Center, among others. Clinical services for homeless residents are provided by a few operating mobile health clinics.

Support Groups

There are currently eight support group programs available in West Salt Lake. The majority of these support groups are offered through Child & Family Empowerment Services where support groups on families and relationships can be found. Other support groups in the neighborhood include HIV counseling and aging support, among others.

Health Education

Eight programs providing health education were found in the neighborhood. These programs are offered through Comunidades Unidas, Sunday Anderson Senior Center, Mexican Consulate, Glendale Senior Housing, and the Boys and Girls Club. These opportunities include, but are not limited to, personal hygiene, food portioning, breast cancer awareness, and other general health education opportunities. All of the health education programs mapped are free of charge.

Mental Health

A total of six mental health services were identified in West Salt Lake. Four of the six programs are family and school based mental health counseling offered through Valley Mental Health at Edison Elementary, Glendale Middle School, Glendale/Mountain View CLC and at their own campus.

Pre & Post Natal Care

Out of the seventy-seven health-related programs in the neighborhood, there are only two programs related to pre and post natal and nutritional resources. As seen in the SAHP table, Glendale has the lowest amount of prenatal care available in the state of Utah. While many of the clinics offer support in these areas, the programs graphed under this category are designed specifically for addressing pre or post natal concerns. The two programs in this category are a Mother's Milk Donation at the University of Utah Clinic and a pre-natal program for education on specific pregnancy topics for Latina women at Comunidades Unidas.

Nutrition

There is one program available for nutrition in the Glendale/Poplar grove neighborhood. This program is offered through SLC Head Start and is reserved for preschool aged kids.

Recommendations

- A more detailed list of private practice physicians and for-profit health service providers should be compiled.
- Proximity and access to hospital services are a concern worthy of further investigation.
- In light of the SAHP, the following program areas deserve further attention: nutrition and nutrition education, pre & post natal care, adult fitness, smoking cessation, diabetes education, drug intervention and access to health care.

FOOD

Within the Food Services classification, there are currently 28 available programs that increase access to food resources (excluding grocery stores) in the neighborhood. As seen in the Figure 3 above, there are a variety of significant health concerns for Glendale, including the lowest consumption of vegetables in Utah. Census tracts within these neighborhoods meet the USDA criteria for classification as Food Deserts (SLVHD Community Health Assessment, 2012). A food desert is a district with little or no access to foods needed to maintain a healthy diet but are often served by plenty of fast food outlets.

Currently, two-thirds of the food programming opportunities offered in the neighborhood are free of charge, as seen in figure E.

The twenty-eight programs available in West Salt Lake for food resources fall into five categories (shown in figure F):

- Community Gardens
- Meals
- Donations
- Food Co-Op's
- Food Pantries

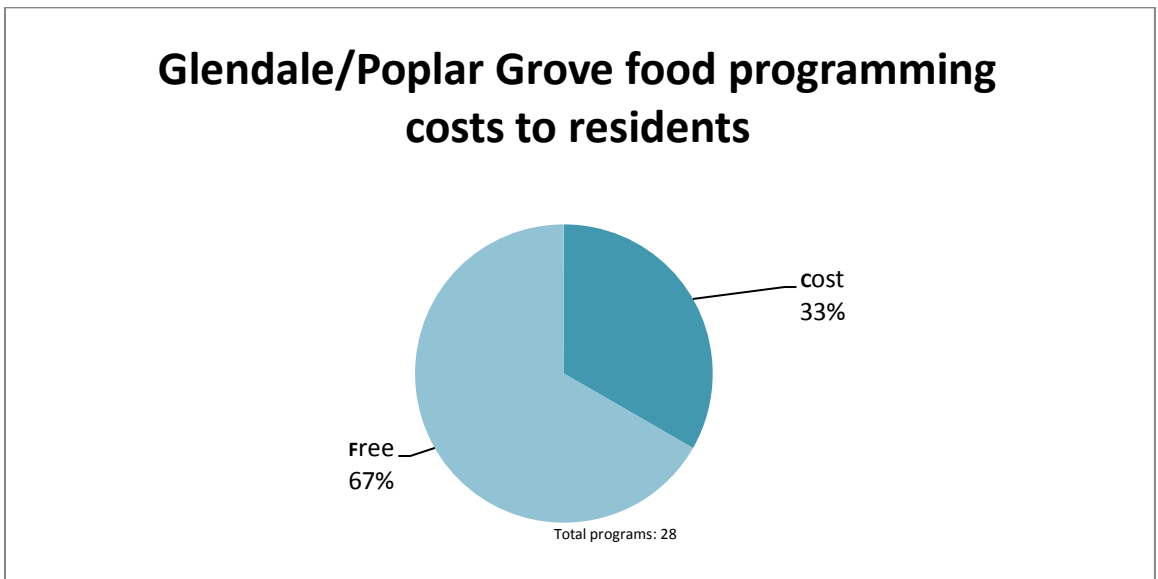

Figure E

Food programming in Glendale/Poplar Grove

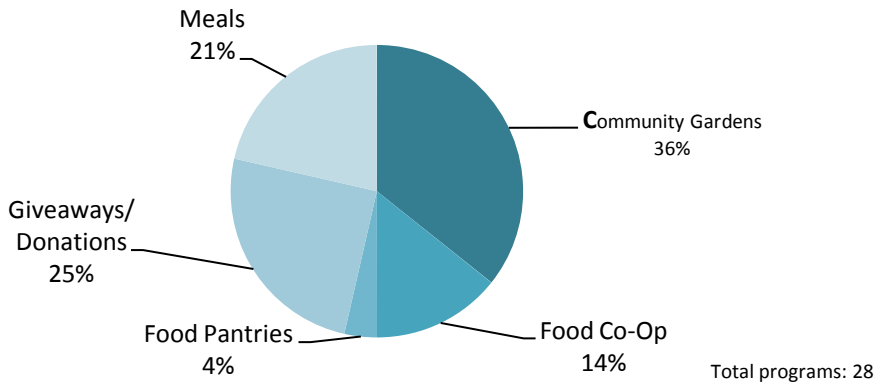

Figure F

Community Gardens

There are six locations of Community Gardens in West Salt Lake with nine programs being offered at these locations (See Figure G). The majority of these programs are affiliated with Wasatch Community Gardens, a local organization. Many of the gardens in the neighborhood also have youth programming which is covered on page ___.

Donations & Giveaways

Donations and Giveaways are defined as opportunities where food is given away outside of a food bank facility. This category accounts for a quarter of the food programming in the neighborhood with seven programs available. Among the programs, the Utah Food Bank hosts many of these programs such as backpacks of food taken to elementary schools for students or mobile food bank trucks. The Salvation Army also hosts a variety of giveaway events during the holiday season such as Thanksgiving meal deliveries.

Meals

There were six programs mapped which provide meals to residents of Glendale/Poplar Grove. The Kid's Cafe program makes up a large portion of this category and can be found in Edison Elementary, Glendale Middle School and at the Boys and Girls Club. Kid's Cafe—provided by the Utah Food Bank—provides meals to children who come from low-income families ensuring those children get a hot meal after school. The rest of the programming in this category consists of meals offered at Sunday Anderson Westside Senior Center.

Food Co-Op's

The category “Food Co-Op” includes three services provided by the local Community Co-Op as well as a seed swap offered at the People's Market.

Food Pantries

The LDS Church operates the largest food pantry in Salt Lake City: the Bishop's Storehouse, which is located in Poplar Grove. The Bishop's Storehouse Welfare Square provides a free shopping experience to those in need and is the only community asset within the food pantries category.

Recommendations

- With a number of community gardens in the neighborhood, additional research into the availability of fresh fruit and vegetables in connection with available programs is warranted.
- A survey of restaurants in the neighborhood is a next step to better understand the food resources in West Salt Lake.
- There were no food pantries mapped as being open on the weekends. This may deserve further research.

ARTS & MUSIC

Arts programming in Glendale/Poplar Grove includes all programming related to fine arts, galleries, performances or music. There were forty-one programs mapped under this category which can be divided into nine categories (See Figure H):

- Art Classes
- Dance Classes
- Performances
- Piano
- Gallery
- Music Classes
- Poetry/Literature
- Concerts
- Choir

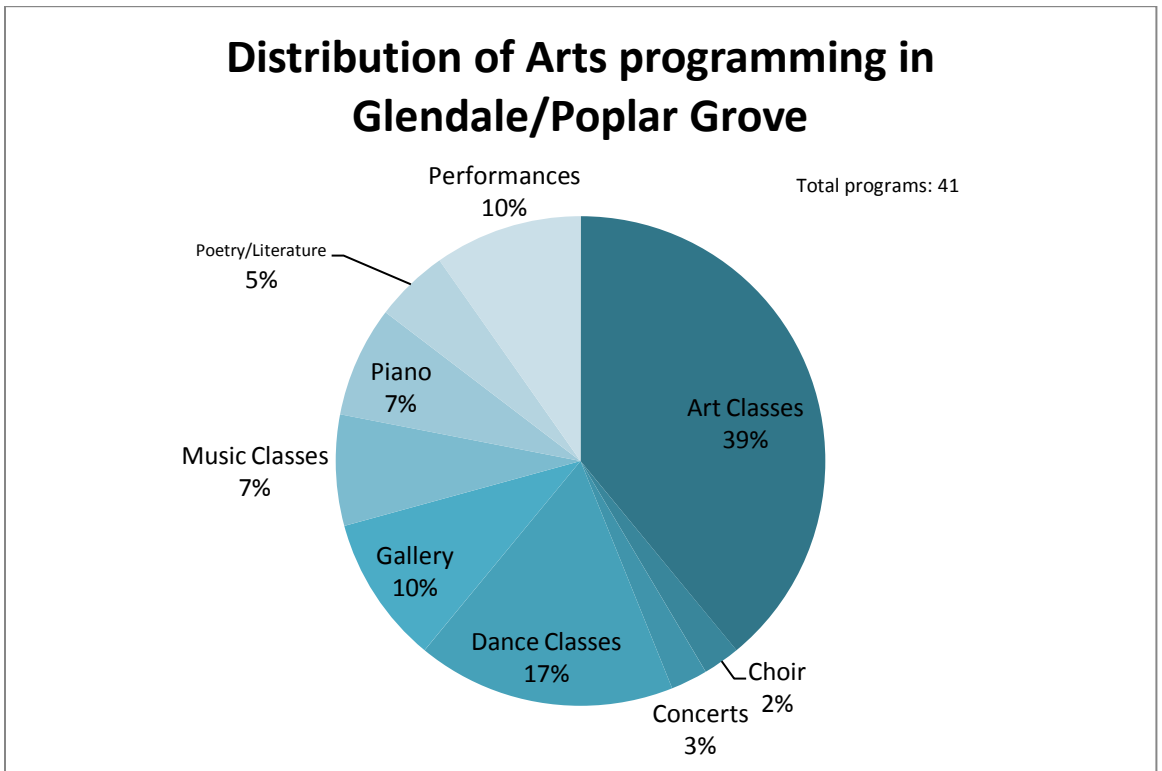

Figure H

Arts Classes

The asset map identified sixteen fine art classes available to the Glendale/Poplar Grove community. Ten of these classes are offered through Bad Dog Arts, an organization which offers a variety of art classes to all age groups. Figure I shows the availability of arts classes in Glendale/Poplar Grove to different age groups.

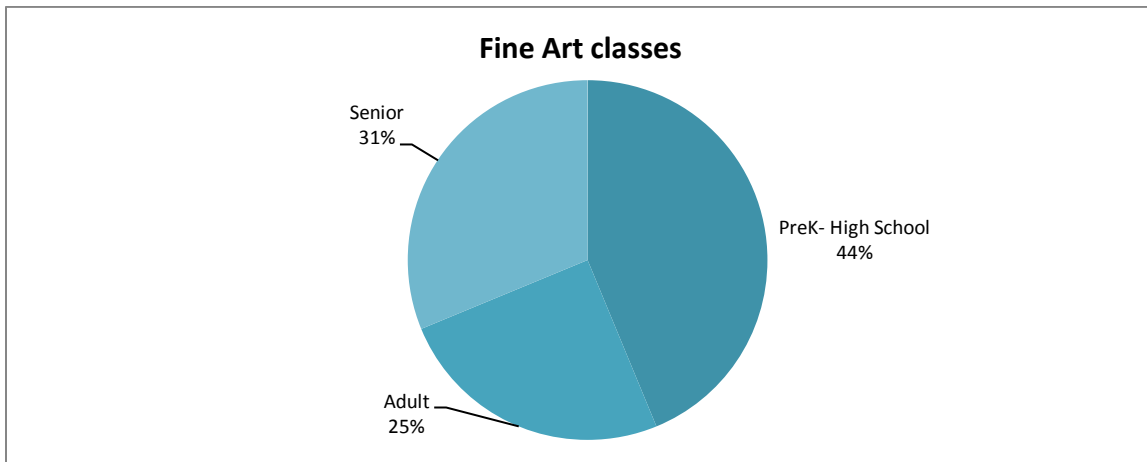

Figure I

Dance Classes

Seven dance classes were mapped in Glendale/Poplar Grove. The Sorenson Multicultural Center offers five of these classes including hip hop, tumbling and ballet.

Performances

The only performance program mapped within West Salt Lake is the Sorenson Unity Center. The Sorenson Unity Center has a theatre and hosts performances within the community. The Utah Cultural Celebration Center is outside the neighborhood, but is located just to the south of the neighborhood boundaries. The Utah Cultural Celebration Center has three different opportunities for youth specifically to enjoy ethnic performances as well as Shakespeare performances.

Piano

Three programs were mapped under the category of piano, including opportunities for community members to access pianos and piano education. The Mundi Project currently serves as the community's largest resource for piano programming offering two out of the three piano programs mapped.

Gallery

Image: Sorenson Unity Center Gallery

The only two galleries within the Glendale/Poplar Grove boundaries are located at the Sorenson Unity Center (Shown above). The Utah Cultural Celebration Center is the next closest gallery, although it is located outside of West Salt Lake Boundaries. It offers two gallery programs.

Music Classes

Music classes were defined during mapping as any opportunity for community members to learn different instruments and musical technique. Three programs were found under this category offered at The Salvation Army, Volunteers of America and Sunday Anderson Westside Senior Center. Through these programs, residents can learn to play instruments such as the harmonica guitar and drums, among others.

Poetry & Literature

Two poetry & literature programs were found in West Salt Lake. West View Media offers community writing workshops which teach residents about journalism and creative writing. Salt Lake Community College Community Writing Center also offers writing programs hosted at the Sorenson Unity Center.

Concerts

The People's Market, currently referred to as The 9th and 9th Market, hosts concerts in Jordan Park every Sunday during the summers.

Choir

There is only one choir opportunity which has been mapped for the Glendale/Poplar Grove community. This choir takes place at the Sunday Anderson Westside Senior Center and is open to all senior citizens of the neighborhood.

Recommendations

- A survey of artists and creative professionals living and/or working in the neighborhood would provide important data on this community asset.
- Currently there are limited opportunities for West Salt Lake residents to participate in the arts across all categories. Additional coordination and resources dedicated to increasing access to the arts and humanities are recommended.

EARLY CHILDHOOD

There are few programs in the Glendale/Poplar Grove community specifically for, and limited to, preschool aged children. In mapping the neighborhood, thirteen programs for Pre-K children were found under the categories of education, health, childcare and life skills which can be seen in figure J.

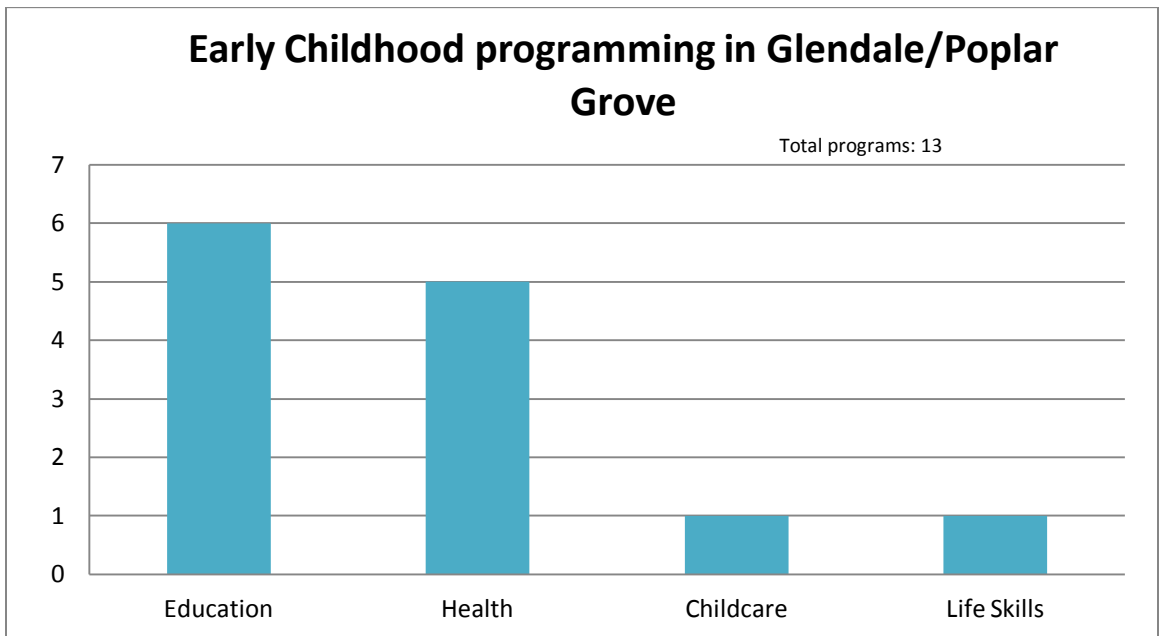

Figure J

The majority of Pre-K programs were found at Head Start, a program aimed at increasing the health and education of low-income children. At Head Start, there are several clinical and nutritional services for Pre-K children as well as school readiness tutoring. In addition to Head Start, there are educational preschools available at the Glendale/Mountain View Community Learning Center, Neighborhood House, Parkview Elementary and Riley Elementary. Childcare is offered at the Sorenson Multicultural Center and the Salt Lake City School District offers a parent/child life skills class.

K - 12

Currently in Glendale/Poplar Grove there are:

- Five elementary schools:
 - Edison, 466 South Cheyenne Street
 - Franklin, 1100 West 400 South
 - Mountain View, 1415 West California Avenue
 - Parkview, 1250 West Mead Avenue
 - Riley, 1431 South 900 West.
- One charter school
 - Dual Immersion Academy, 1155 South Glendale Avenue
- One middle school
 - Glendale, 1430 West Andrew Ave.
- No high schools

Figure L

Each school hosts afterschool programming during the school week. Salt Lake School District provided current numbers of how many youth participate in afterschool programming at each school (See Figure L):

Recommendations:

- The majority of Glendale/Poplar Grove students attend Glendale Middle and then East, West or Highland High School where they must be bussed out of the neighborhood because there is no local high school. Residents have repeatedly voiced a desire to have a local high school.

OUT-OF-SCHOOL TIME

The asset map design originally classified all activities that supported K-12 enrichment and education - including those within schools and during out-of-school time - as “Education”. Once the information was gathered, however, it was decided to differentiate between education happening within-school time and enrichment happening during out-of-school time. Thus, for the purpose of review, asset map program information was reorganized to provide a snapshot of all youth-related out-of-school time (OST) enrichment and education programs.

The data organized as OST activities includes one hundred seven programs which can be divided into nine distinct categories as seen in figure M:

- Health & Safety
- Literacy Education
- Activities & Games
- Food & Gardens
- Fine Arts
- Summer & Family
- Life Skills
- Dance & Music
- Community Service

Figure M

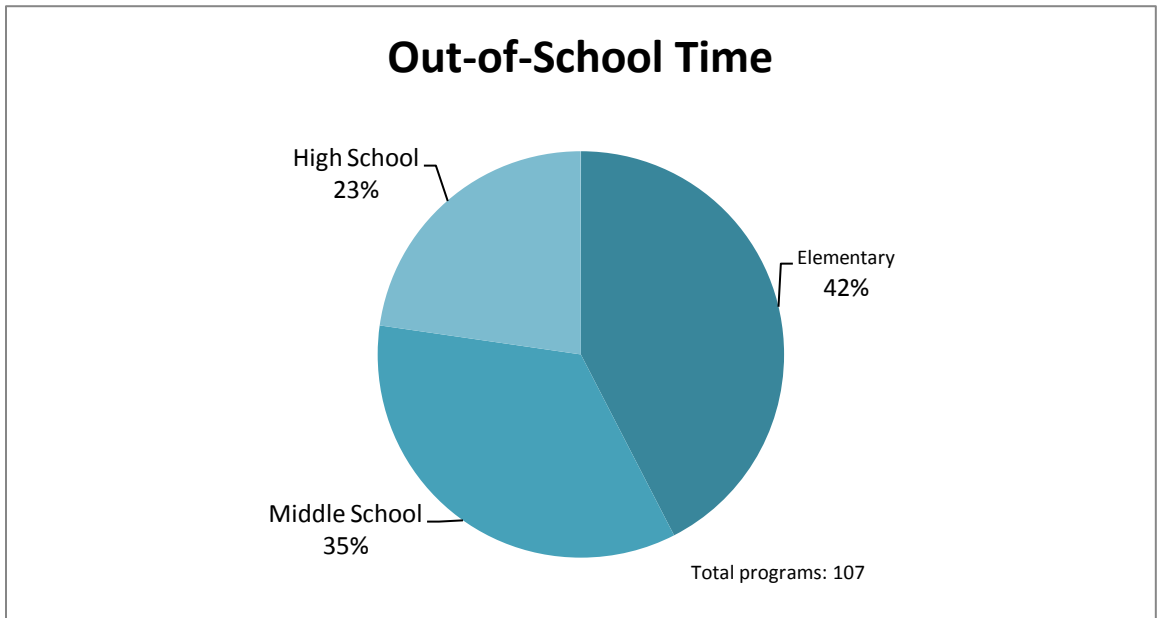

Figure N

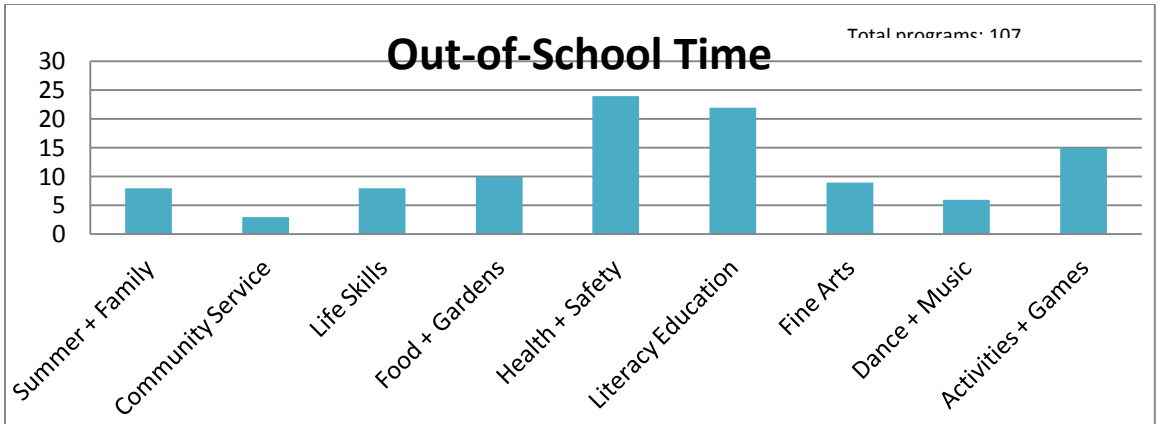

Figure M Out of School Time programming by category

Health & Safety

The program area within youth OST programming with the largest piece of the pie is health, exercise and safety with twenty-four total programs.

The majority of these are fitness-related and many are hosted at the Sorenson Multicultural Center. Offering a range of fitness classes including martial arts, soccer, etc., the Multicultural Center also hosts the organization SWAMI, a swim program for youth with various levels of swim experience. Soccer programming is also popular with Utah Development Academy and Hartland both hosting soccer programs. For safety programming, the two fire stations in the neighborhood both host a healthy kid’s event teaching youth about basic safety tips. The Pioneer Precinct police station in Poplar Grove also teaches youth about keeping safe while traveling to school, as well as teaching them about police operations.

Literacy Education

There are twenty-two programs outside of the classroom which focus on literacy education for youth K-12. Programs in this area include reading support at the Chapman Library, computer classes at Sorenson Unity Center and writing classes at West View Media, among others.

Activities & Games

There are sixteen programs in West Salt Lake that involve youth in extracurricular activities and games. Many of the programs in this category, especially those hosted at schools, offer tutoring along with activities. Their main focus, however, lies on extracurricular activities such as crafts, cooking, sports and more. Organizations which host such out-of-school activities are Dual Immersion Academy, Boys & Girls Club, Neighborhood House, Sorenson Multicultural Center, Chapman Library, The Dream Center, Sorenson Unity Center, Comunidades Unidas, the Glendale/Mountain View CLC and all public schools in the neighborhood. A majority of these programs offered are general afterschool programs with a variety of activity options for youth to choose from as well as tutors or homework support. Lego League is a program offered through several organizations that teach youth both engineering and problem solving skills.

Food & Gardens

There are eleven food/garden-related programs in Glendale/Poplar Grove offered for youth during out-of-school time. This category is specific to opportunities for youth to eat meals, participate in gardening or take cooking classes. Programming for such activities takes place at Sorenson Unity Center, Neighborhood House, Salvation Army, Real Foods Rising, Dual Immersion Academy, Boys & Girls Club, Edison Elementary, Franklin Elementary and Glendale Middle School. Sorenson Unity Center hosts the G-Fresh program which teaches kids entrepreneurial skills associated with growing a garden as well as Kids on the Cob, which focuses on teaching younger children about healthy eating. Real Foods Rising has a summer garden program for youth and the Salvation Army also has a community garden which youth are able to utilize. Kids Cafe is a program offering kids a free meal after school that currently is offered at many of the schools in the neighborhood, as well as the Boys & Girls Club and Sorenson Multicultural Center.

Life Skills

Life Skills is a small but diverse category within OST activities for K-12 youth and includes eight programs. It includes any program which is aimed at increasing youth's ability to take control of their lives and choices. Organizations which host life skills programming for youth are Comunidades Unidas, Hartland, Glendale Middle School, Planned Parenthood, Neighbor Works and the Boys & Girls Club. These programs range from Gender Skills classes taught at Boys & Girls Club to pre-employment classes taught at Neighbor Works. Hartland offers a program to improve relationships between fathers/children. Youth can learn about being leaders at Comunidades Unidas and Glendale Middle or learn about taking charge of their life through Planned Parenthood.

Summer & Family

While most programs mapped in Out-of-school time are school programming, summer or evening programs are also included in this category. Eight programs were mapped which happen during the summer or evenings. All the garden programs described previously are offered exclusively in the summer. This category is also reserved for summer camps or summer adventure programs. Summer programs are offered through Neighborhood House and Sorenson Multicultural Center. Neighborhood House offers a summer program as well as hosts the programs SOAR and SOAR II which take participants on field trips and keep them active with sports and games. The Sorenson Multicultural Center has a ten-week summer camp for youth and an outdoor adventure camp as well.

Evening family events found are hosted periodically throughout the year at Neighborhood House, Boys & Girls Club and Franklin Elementary. Sorenson Unity Center offers its monthly Free Family Film Screenings as well.

Fine Arts

The fine arts category of OST programming consists of nine programs, almost all of which are from one organization. Bad Dog Arts hosts a number of visual arts workshops for kids on different subjects and for different age groups. The only other organization offering fine arts programming is Hartland, which offers an afterschool art workshop for youth.

Dance & Music

With six programs mapped, there are fewer dance & music programs available than fine arts, yet there are more variations on where these programs are offered. While arts programming is limited to Bad Dog Arts almost exclusively, dance classes, for example, are taught at Sorenson Multicultural Center, Ailine's Touch of Polynesia and Hartland. The only music programming mapped for youth outside of school is done through The Mundi Project, a local organization dedicated to bringing music to the lives of community members.

Community Service

Currently, three organizations in Glendale/Poplar Grove have programs set up to increase community service in youth K-12. These three organizations are Boys & Girls Club, Salvation Army and Westside Community Nursing Center. Boys & Girls Club periodically offers varying service projects for youth, including food drives and Christmas card activities. The Salvation Army has the Angel Tree program every year where youth can join in purchasing gifts for those in need. Westside Community Nursing Center offers an intergenerational program where youth are paired with an elderly member of the center to participate in service projects with.

Recommendations

- The majority of OST programs are offered for younger youth; middle and high school students could benefit from additional free or low-cost programming. (See Figure N)
- OST programs that provide Dance, Music, Arts and Community Service across all ages are limited and increased offerings deserve consideration.

SENIORS

The Glendale/Poplar Grove neighborhood has many senior centers and a variety of programming available to senior citizens both within those centers and through other community organizations. Figure O shows the distribution of available programming to senior citizens.

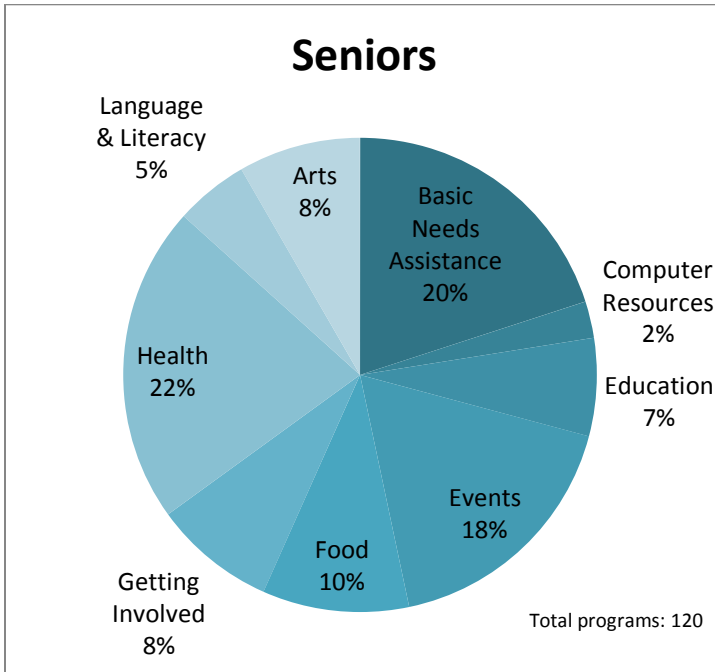

Figure O

Sunday Anderson Westside Senior Center provides a majority of the programming available to seniors in West Salt Lake for no charge in a non-residential setting. Programming at Sunday Anderson includes, but is not limited to, games and activities, book clubs, ESL classes, writing classes and meals. Westside Nursing Center also provides a large amount of programming for senior citizens in a residential setting. Organizations such as Glendale Senior Housing, Utah Council of the Blind and the Salvation Army provide assistance with basic needs such as utilities, vision and wellness.

CHURCHES

Churches within the Glendale/Poplar Grove neighborhood boundaries (see Figure P) include:

- St. Patrick's Catholic Church
- Central Church of the Nazarene
- Salvation Army
- New Pilgrim Baptist Church
- Gilead Baptist Church
- Glendale Baptist Church
- Eight LDS Churches

SUMMARY

From our perspective, the process of gathering this information has been very valuable in itself in terms of opening channels of communication and collaboration that have not been present in the past. We acknowledge that there are likely omissions, errors and additional work to do, however the response that has emerged as we share this information has been extremely positive and we expect to continue refining this information to make it useful to more organizations and to residents.

It is our intention to develop a pilot website - the Community Dashboard - that will be built around a searchable database of this information. Our research has provided insight into what other elements should be included on this website to encourage resident use. We expect to do some significant outreach to provide education and access to residents for this information. It is our hope that regular and frequent use by residents will incentivize organizations to update their program information.

DEMOGRAPHICS FROM THE UTAH COMMUNITY DATA PROJECT¹

The Utah Community Data Project manages an information system for collecting and sharing data that are meaningful at neighborhood and community levels. Research and data visualizations can be found at <http://www.ucdp.utah.edu>. This report compares the Glendale/Poplar Grove neighborhood on the west side of Salt Lake City to larger geographies. The neighborhood area is bounded by the I-15 and I-215 interstates, Highway 201, and North Temple Street. Data are from the 2010 U.S. Census unless otherwise noted.

APPENDIX B

ASSETS ACCORDING TO RESIDENTS

Resident quotes contained below include highlights recorded during resident focus groups convened by FCS 5730/6730 class taught by Kim Schmit in fall of 2013. Focus groups included 52 residents from ages 11-80 and from all different cultures and social groups. Questions were asked about gathering places, community centers, goals for the neighborhood,

We like “Hanging out with friends and going to the park.”

“We would like benches for people waiting for the bus. Local artists could paint them to look nice.”

“We want to know more about ‘important’ people from the area and statistics about graduation rates, population, etc.”

“We should focus more on the kids. Something happens between 6th and 7th grade with their attitudes toward the teachers.”

“I would like to have a community bazaar to bring residents together. We could sell diverse crafts, clothes, and food.”

“We are not set up for an emergency situation. There are not adequate emergency services in the neighborhood and we are blocked in on all sides by the trains and freeways.”

“Health is a problem. Many people have diabetes, but do not understand how to prevent or manage it. They don’t get screened because they don’t have insurance. And they don’t understand how their diet affects their health.”

“I would like a way for local artists to connect with each other.”

“I love how quiet and peaceful the neighborhood is.”

“The schools are great. All of my children have benefitted from the school systems, and they each had different needs. The schools have been very good to us.”

“People don’t strive for self sufficiency. There are so many services available that people just double and triple dip.”

“We would like a museum in the community to draw in outsiders, especially kids.”

“We want community members to be more open to talking about issues that need to be improved upon.”

“We are often viewed as ‘ghetto’, but don’t see ourselves that way. We would like to change that image.”

“The best way to work on our issues is to pull together as a community rather than disagreeing and fighting with each other.”

“This community is down to earth and neighborly. It has beautiful gardens and the wonderful Jordan River Trail.”

“A high school in the neighborhood will increase pride for the area and allow students to have a sense of belonging.”

“I’m not from the neighborhood, but I enjoy the area. I like working and getting to know individuals here.”

“I enjoy it (here) because we know everyone. We all say hi and bye to each other.”

“I use the Jordan Parkway a lot for exercise.”

“The (Sunday Anderson) Senior Center is a friendly and nice place to come and keep busy.”

“I enjoy my community.”

“This is the best neighborhood in the summer. All the kids play outside until 9 at night. Parents walk around while they are playing. We have neighborhood BBQs.”

“We have a diversified amount of people in the area.”

“We’ve been living in the area for 12 years. We moved here because our daughter lived here. The longer we stayed the more we mingled and realized that we have good people around us.”

“With the diverse community that we’ve got, we have a tendency not to mingle with them. Sometimes I feel left out like I don’t belong with other ethnic groups and I want to mingle with them.”

“When we moved into Glendale I tried to live the stereotype. But I realized if I wanted to live here longer I had to live the way I wanted to.”

“It is always interesting to go to other cultural activities, to see other foods, dances.”

“There are more than 10 houses within walking distance that are immediate family.”

“I like the neighborhood, but many people think once you become successful (educated), you are expected to move on to a more ‘desirable’ neighborhood.”

“In order to get the ‘suburban experience’ of museums, libraries, and restaurants you have to look outside the neighborhood.”

“A website for the Westside would be great to help engage people that might not participate in community council.”

In regard to the community council- “We should make an investment on both sides-the community council should be accessible, and community members should make participation a priority.”

“I would like to change the power relation between residents and outsiders.”

“Community Elders should be paid to be in schools. This will help build trust and create jobs for elders in the community. This will also help manage behavior among students as elders are respected.”

“...want to address the socioeconomic and infrastructure issues that lead to poor education and health outcomes. Residents are disconnected from healthy food and food sources.”

“This neighborhood is given everything less. We need to change that.”

“Westside kids have less access to college. It’s an educational barrier, but a psychological barrier too.”

“Kids from the Westside should be recruited into science and technology programs, not just sports teams.”

“Let’s make higher education a tradition in this community.”

“We would like more indoor activities at the Sorenson Unity Center, more street lighting, and programs for kids.”

“We like riding our bikes, going to UNP’s Youth Center Splore program and Kelby’s dance class.”

“We like going to the parks, but don’t like the litter, dog waste, and lack of lighting.”

Communities have never been built upon their deficiencies. Building community has always depended upon mobilizing the capacities and assets of a people and a place. That is why a map of neighborhood assets is necessary if local people are to find the way toward empowerment and renewal.
